Toni Rønnow-Rasmussen
(Lund University)

13. Nov. 2017 | 16.00–18.00 | NIG 2i
“Value Dualism and Good-for Unitarianism”
Lecture (with discussion)

“Fitting-attitude Analysis and the Logical Consequence Argument”
Paper-discussion

Should you plan to attend this paper-discussion, please contact florian.kolowrat@univie.ac.at

Prof. Dr. Rønnow-Rasmussen has been acting chair in practical philosophy at Lund University since 2014. His research mainly concerns the nature of value, valuing and reasons. Some recent work: “Fitting-attitude Analysis and the Logical Consequence argument” (forthcoming Philosophical Quarterly); “On Conditionalism: On the Verge of a New Metaethical Theory” (Nov-2017, Les Ateliers del’éthique); “Locating value in moral progress” (Ethical Theory and Moral Practice 2017); “Good and Good-for” (Encyclopedia article 2017), “Value taxonomy” (co-author W. Rabinowicz, Handbook of Value, OUP 2016), and “Intrinsic and Extrinsic Value” (Handbook of Value Theory, OUP2015).

In Vienna, Prof. Rønnow-Rasmussen will give a talk and discuss one of his most recent papers in a seminar-setting. Please register for the paper-discussion on Tuesday, 14th of November, should you intend to participate.

Organized by Univ.-Prof. Mag. Dr. Herlinde Pauer-Studer